

Ginn-Thompson School for Girls Dress Code Policy

At Ginn-Thompson School for Girls, we believe that how our students present themselves each day helps set the tone for learning, confidence, and connection. We teach our girls that proper hygiene and clothing that meets school guidelines are not just about rules—they're about self-respect, care, and holding ourselves to the queen standard we strive for every day. In order to maintain this standard, the dress code must be followed consistently by both students and parents. We ask families to partner with us in making sure each student arrives at school prepared, polished, and in alignment with the expectations outlined in our policy. If a student is not in compliance with the dress code, corrective actions will be taken.
